GRAND OPERA HOUSE ON FRI-DAY, JANUARY 15.

tank L. Perley Will Prosent Mr. Charles Dalton, the Eminent Actor, in a Dramitization of Stanley Weyman's Novel.

Keenly alive to the fact that the pube at large are taking greater interest things theatrical and, moreover, disriminate as to what sort of attractions ey will patronize, so Mr. Frank L. Pery intends to give them what they nt. With this aim in view, he has cured the services of Mr. Charles Daln, un actor of unqualified merit, whose cess in the role of Marcus Superbus "The Sign of the Cross," is a matr of universal knowledge, to star in e huge dramatic success, "A Gentlenan of France." As "Gaston De Mare," Mr. Dalton finds himself fitted with ongenial part which gives him ample opportunities to demonstrate that as a ing the features have pleased immenantic actor he has few, if any, equals.

In sword and gauntlet, he is the ideal 'swash buckler," the hero of court chamber and the dueling field, strong and virile, yet with that captivating voice and smile that fits so well with his handome face, he irresistably carries his audience to heights of unthough of enthusiasm. The love interest enters largey into the construction of the play, and nding it with deft lights and shade into the thrilling aituations of "the fight on the stair-case" makes "A Gentleman of France a play that will long be rembered.

The time of the play is that golder age of romance and poetry in France which has furnished so many nappy emes to poet and novelist. The locale admits of excellent exposition of the cenie artist's craft, full advantage of which has been taken by Mr. Perley. The amer has been allowed full play, and a result, the production is unquesanably the best Mr. Perley has done broughout his long and successful ea eer as a manager. Needless to say, the sompany surrounding Mr. Dalton are med veterans, whose good work has een a matter of favorable comment in the biggest dramatic successes of the past five years. Mr. Dalton and his supporting company in "A Gentleman of rance" will be the attraction at the arent opern house on Friday, Jan-

The remarkable stage effects in the hird and fast acts are an achievement out of the ordinary. The smugglers' cave affords a picturesque setting, and the breakers, with the roling white caps on which the ship comes riding to the reactic of the beroine, are realistic in the extreme. "QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER"

Big Scenic Dramatization of Popular Novel of New England Life Comto Clarksburg, March 10.

The scenic equipment of "Qincy Adams Sawyer," which will be seen here March 16, 1904, at the Grand opera house, i very elaborate, and is built for the pro duction. The managers of the play were determined that nothing should mar the conumeness of the country atmosphere adn no expense has been spared in the stage settings.

Many have asked, "Why is 'Quincy Adams Samyer' called the best New Eng lang play ever written?" The answe has invariably been, "Because it's different from any other play of its class." "But why is it different?" "Oh, every thing is so natural, the people are juslike the people you see in the country the scenery is just as read as any thing," is the reply.

The husking-bee scene alone woun win fame for the play. The real red cars, the real kisses, the real supper and the natural and humorous incidents attendaudiences all over the country

There is genuine comedy all through the play, and the few touches of pathos strike as true and convincing. The story is a simple and a sweet one, appealing to the heart. There is nothing in it approaching a villain or an adventuress for it is not a melo-drama, it is only a wholesome, clearly cut picture of New England life, and as such it finds favor anywhere, in town or city. The play 'leaves a good taste in the mouth" and that is, after all, what the people want.

Worth His Weight In Gold.

The maharajah of Travancore was, on one occasion at least, worth his weight in gold, for he was weighed metals, and, after the scales were balmeed, the mass of gold was distributed n charity. This custom, called "Tulabhara," is one of great antiquity and the fourth century. It is not unknown in other parts of India, though, of course, gold is only used in the case of wealthy persons, humbler folk be ing content to weigh themselves against spices or grain. On the occasion men tioned the maharajah weighed a little over nine stone. The Brahmans, it is sald, wished to defer the ceremony in the hope that the maharajah might more nearly approach the weight of his father, who did not undergo the rite until forty-seven years old, when he weighed fourteen and three-quarter stone.-Golden Penny.

A Fashlonable Woman's Confession. Nobody finds it more difficult to spare time for reading than the very idle, yet every woman in society religiously orders every new book from her library. even though she sends most of them back without having even cut the If it is a book every one is talking about she skims through the opening chapters, dismissing the volnine with a single observation at a dinner party and forgetting everything about it a month after she has returned it. Most of us remember the books of our youth, but if any one were to ask me the titles of the novels I read a couple of years ago no definite impressi n would be aroused.-"A Countess

PHOSPHORESCENCE.

Animal and Vegetable Light Re

A nimal phosphorescence is one of the surprising and least understood normal person cannot conceive, is desof a ture's phenomena. The pale, blu-ish white light of the glowworm has been found by naturalists to be dependent upon the motion of the insect's body or legs. From this it would seem that the phosphorescence depends upon some veryous action, regulated at pleasure by the insect, for it has the power of ols uring it entirely. If the glowworm - crushed and the face or hands with it, luminous streaks like iduced by phosphorus will appear. 's sy shine more brightly in oxygen gas nd in nitrous acid.

The po 'er of emitting luminous rays belongs t several varieties of fly and three speces of beetle of the genus elater. Ci . of the most brilliant of these is the great lantern fly of South America, which gives enough light to enable a person to read by the rays from a sing e insect. Numerous classes of these it is are found in Surinam. where they illuminate the darkness in most remarkable manner.

In some of the bogs of Ireland lives worm which gives out a bright green ight, a fitting color for the Emerald isle. There are many other kin is of nsects which become luminous in the

Yet there are many curlous instances among crustaceans the whiting among fishes and decayed wood being strikit. examples. Their emission of light seems to depend, however, not upon putrefaction, for as this progresses their luminosity dir ninishes, but upon certain unknown a tmospheric condi-tions. This phospher scence of decayed matter has been remarded as somewhat different from the slow combustion of phosphorus, but upon examination all the chemical conditions are found to be the same.

The strange phospi orescent quality of some plants and flowers is not ex-actly the same as that possessed by animal matter, but it is as little understood. It seems to be an absorption of light and a subsequent liberation of it. If a nasturtium is plucked during sunshine and carried into a dark room, the eye, after it has reposed for a few moments, will discover the flower by the light emitted from its leaves.

The phosphorescence of the sea is du to a living animal, wh ch gives out its light under nervous excitement, as when it is stirred by the motion of a passing vessel.

"But how can I be sure," said the beautiful heiress, "that you do not want me merely for my money?"

"Darling," replied the duke, "if I can have you I shall never worry about money any more."-Chicago Record-Herald.

Sleep.

Up to the fifteenth year most young people require ten hours' sleep and till the twentieth year nine hours. After that age every one finds out how much he or she requires, though, as a general rule, at least six to eight hours are necessary. Eight hours' sleep will prevent more nervous derangements in women than any medicine can cure. During growth there must be ample sleep if the brain is to develop to its fullest extent, and the more nervous, excitable or precocious a child is the longer sleep it should get if its intellectual progress is not to come to a premature stand-still or its life cut short at an early age.
